PREFACE

This fourth volume of Athanasiana Syriaca contains two Syriac versions of the Expositio in Psalmos. Although one version is but an abbreviation of this commentary and frequently corresponds in wording with the other, it does contain material not found in the longer Syriac text. But it is not easy to tell whether this material is due to the Syrian adaptor, or whether he took his wording from a Greek text similar — but not identical — to the composite text published in Migne, P.G. 27, 60-545. The longer text also has material of its own not found in the Greek. But because so many folios have been lost from the manuscript of the longer version, what remains is in fact shorter in length than the complete text of the abbreviated version. The two texts have been edited and translated separately.

These Syriac versions are so literal, and often inaccurate, as to be at times almost incomprehensible without reference to a Greek original. But as we have no critical edition of the Greek — for which edition the early Syriac version would in turn be valuable — I have not attempted to « correct » the Syriac texts, except for nonsense forms. There are also some scribal errors in the manuscripts which have been corrected in the notes. But vagaries of pointing which do not involve a change of sense have not been recorded, as neither manuscript is consistent in this regard.

Since the English translation follows the Syriac text closely, readers who wish to compare the Syriac with any Greek text are cautioned that a minor corruption in the Syriac may lead to an apparently major change in English, and that such divergences should not be taken for variants in an underlying Greek text.

The Syriac versions follow the divisions of the Greek text of the psalms, so all other biblical references in the Old Testament are also to the Septuagint numbering, not to the Peshitta.

My thanks are again due to the Trustees of the British Museum for permission to print these texts. I am also grateful to Professor John Strugnell for some helpful comments. But I especially wish to acknowledge the help and support given me by Professor René Draguet since he first suggested the publication of these volumes of Athanasiana Syriaca when I was a student in Louvain.

INTRODUCTION

The two manuscripts used for the present edition are both in the British Museum, and both formed part of the collection made in the early tenth century by Moses of Nisibis for the monastery of St. Mary Deipara in the desert of Scete in Egypt [1].

The abbreviated version of the commentary is found in B.M. Add. 12168. This is written on vellum in a regular Estrangelo hand of the eighth or ninth century. The MS measures approximately 30×22.5 cm. and contains 255 leaves. Each page has two columns with 32 to 47 lines — 37 lines per column for the Expositio in Psalmos. The MS contains selections from the Fathers forming a commentary on the Old and New Testaments. The abridgment of Athanasius' commentary occupies f. 71^{r} to 113^{r}. F. 113^{r-v} contains a summary of the Argumentum in Psalmos, printed in Migne, P.G. 27, 56-57 as a preface to the Expositio. On f. 255^{v} a note states that this was one of the volumes brought to St. Mary Deipara by Moses of Nisibis in 1243 (A.D. 932) [2].

B.M. Add. 14568 is written on vellum in a regular Estrangelo hand dated to 910 (A.D. 597) — though the text may possibly predate this first notice on f. 50^{v}. A later note indicates that the MS was added to the library of St. Mary Deipara in A.D. 932. The MS measures approximately 26.5×17.5 cm. and now contains 50 leaves. Each page has two columns with 27 to 32 lines. In its present form the MS is but a remnant of the original Syriac version of the entire Greek commentary [3]. Following the commentary, on f. 49^{v} - 50^{r} is the text of Ps. 151 [4]. The following passages from the commentary have been lost :

Ps. I - XVII, v. 38
XVIII - XX
XXI, v. 12 - XXII, v. 5

In addition, many of the surviving leaves are torn, stained or otherwise damaged, so there are numerous shorter lacunae. In the printed text three dots (...) indicate that the rest of the line is missing, not three letters. The number of letters in a line varies from 8 to 14.

The printed Armenian Introduction to the Commentary on David by St. Athanasius[5] is a translation of the Epistola ad Marcellinum (P.G. 27, 12-45); a Syriac fragment of this from B.M. Add. 14434 is printed below as an Appendix[6].

[6] B.M. add. 14434 is written on vellum in an Estrangelo of the first half of the eighth century. The MS measures approximately 25.5 × 17.5 cm., and contains 79 leaves, much stained and torn. The text is a translation of the psalms from the Septuagint by Paul of Tella with a few long annotations from various Fathers. The extract from Athanasius' Epistola ad Marcellinum is on f. 4^{r-v}. For a full description of the MS see Wright, op. cit. I, p. 35-36.

INDEX OF BIBLICAL QUOTATIONS

Only direct quotations in the commentary to the various psalms are listed here, not the myriad allusions to the text of the bible. For reasons noted in the Preface the numbering of the Septuagint has been followed, not that of the Peshitta. References are to the pages of the Syriac text.
